

HEALTHY CHEF CHALLENGE

HOSTED BY

Jennifer White

Jennifer White, host and anchor at WBEZ, Chicago Public Radio has been in public media since 1999. She starts listeners' mornings off right as one of the hosts of "The Morning Shift." Jenn is also the creator of the popular "Making Oprah" and "Making Obama" podcasts. She has produced and hosted the public television programs "Out of the Box" and "Edible Legacies" along with the nationally recognized public radio documentary "Finding Our Bootstraps: Americans Deal with Recession."

Before coming to the Windy City in 2016, Jenn worked for the NPR Member station Michigan Radio. There she was the host of "All Things Considered" and the Director of Media Outreach and Community Relations. As a University of Michigan alumna, Jenn used her talents to help the school as the Executive Producer of the television program, "Out of the Blue: The Michigan Difference" which aired on the Big Ten Network.

Jenn's background in public media has also opened doors to various political mediums. She has moderated for several mayoral and gubernatorial races both on television and on public radio.
